Bringing Christ Into This Christmas

By The Rev. M. G. Stimpson, Pastor
Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church

Professor Kenneth J. Foreman writes: "My attention has been drawn recently to a feature common to oriental art, whether Chinese, Japanese or Korean, which I was not conscious of before. The eye is caught, in an oriental painting, by a sharply if conventionally drawn and focused picture. It may be no more than a flower, or it may be a complex scene like a set for a multiple stage in a theatre. But no one asks, What is it? Whatever it is, commonplace, tragic or comic, it is clearly seen. But around it, enveloping it, is haze, cloud, the void. The edges of the picture are blank. The typical example of pictorial art under Buddhist influence is always "Something in the middle of nothing."

"The something is something by itself, no more. It does not run off the canvas, so to speak, and join something. It is self-contained in its cocoon of emptiness. It has no past, no future, no value beyond itself, no reason for its being. It is only 'there'. The artist sets it down without comment, without blame or praise. Whatever it is, it is always something — in the middle of nothing. The viewer sees only NOW and THIS. Why? Whence? Whither? are questions not to be asked, for they have no ready drawn and focused picture. It may be no more than a flower, or it may be a complex scene like a set for a multiple stage in a theatre. But no one asks, What is it? Whatever it is, commonplace, tragic or comic, it is clearly seen. But around it, enveloping it, is haze, cloud, the void. The edges of the picture are blank. Mrs. Santa Claus In Town Tonight

Mrs. Santa Claus will visit Appomattox tonight! Boys and girls invited to go on the special Jaycee Shopping Tour will have a good opportunity to talk to Mrs. Santa, and to receive a gift.

Fire Loss

Twice within a year an Appomattox couple has lost most of their clothing in a home fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wayne Carter, both employed at the Appomattox Garment factory, suffered the loss of almost all of their personal wearing apparel last week as a result of a fire in their apartment. Just a year ago the same thing happened as a result of a fire at another location.

Appomattox firemen have had numerous calls during the past two weeks involving grass fires and home fires. The fire at the Carter apartment was of undetermined origin.

Banks Stay Open

Although Monday, December 24 is a legal holiday, both the Bank of Appomattox and the Farmers National Bank will be open until 12 NOON.

4-H Achievement Banquet

"Don't Trade Your Future For A Jalopy" 4-H Speaker Warns

Dr. Orville W. Wake, president of Lynchburg College, speaking before a large gathering of 4 H members, their parents and other county citizens at the annual Achievement Banquet Dec .14, gave some of the reasons why young people do not finish high school.

"It is a tragic thing," he said, "that not all young people finish high school. About 42 per cent of our 8th graders fail to finish 12th grade," he explained and termed this "drop out" figure a cause for "sadness" and "alarm".

He cited the case of a successful friend of his who years ago was unable to finish school because of family finances. The friend told Dr. Wake, "I'll say that what I did in my time can be done today. We are moving into a time when educated man power is more and more in demand."

Science and Technology

Dr. Wake stressed the need for men educated in every field of endeavor.

"There is no substitute for technology in agriculture", he said, " to feed and clothe men of the future." He stated that there has been no more "startling" thing in this age than the development in agriculture. "Agriculture enterprise has undergone a major revolution," Dr. Wake said. "It takes a whole new set of ideas to achieve and to succeed in this area. This will be increasingly true in the future."

$50,000 Difference

Whether a boy or girl finishes high school may mean as much as $50,000 to him, Wake stated. He based his figures on current studies which show that a high school graduate may earn as much as $160,000 in a lifetime compared with lifetime earnings of $110,000.

Reasons for "Drop-Outs"

He believes that a lot of young people drop out of school because the curriculum is so narrow, "It is pretty hard for everybody to fit," he said. "Human personality is so diverse and every human being is vastly different from every other human being, with vastly different kinds of abilities." He stressed the need for more fields of study at the high school level.

Reading

"Adults vary tremendously in their ability to pick up the written page and make it a part of their own make up, " Wake said. "A student thus handicapped needs aid find great understanding. So much depends on one's ability to read," he said.

Town Council Adopts $58,257 Budget For '63

Appomattox Town Council, meeting Monday night, adopted a budget totaling $58,257.00 for the coming year.

The budget is divided into three categories. General Fund, Water Fund, and Sewer Fund, and with a few exceptions, is essentially the same budget as last year. 1962's budget totaled $54,887.

The budget covers salaries of he mayor, the council men, po-cemen, and other town employees. It includes funds for upkeep of town owned vehicles, for water and sewer line maintenance, and such new acquisitions through the year as a fire hydrant, sidewalks, and street lights.

General Fund

Listed under general fund expenses are the costs of town management plus expenses of the partment, and the street department.

$750.00 has been set aside to devote to a proposed clean - up operation of the city county dump. This will be a modified land fill operation as drawn up by county sanitarian G. A. Pitsenberger at the November meeting.

Street maintenance accounts for a $2,000 bite in the budgtet, plus another $2500 in the town's program to replace outmoded street lights with new mercury vapor lights along Court Street, and as needed in other parts of the town.

Total general fund expenditures are expected to run about $58,457.00. The General Fund is fed by 11,500 tax dollars with the remainder from court fines, motor vehicle tax, ABC funds, merchants' licenses, income from bank stock, and other sources.

Water Fund

A total of $10,180 will probably be spent in repairing and maintaining water service to town residents, according to the stated budget. A bond payment accounts for $4,000 of this, and a ...ing site painting job in painti... town - owned 100,000 gallon water tank will cost $1,000, the Town Council indicated.

Receipts from the sale of water, plus ABC fund receipts, and charges for installing water taps by new users replenish this fund during the year.

Sewer Fund

An estimated $15,000 surplus in the Sewer Fund is on hand to use in enlargring the town's sewage facilities, the Council members reported. Other than this, sum, set aside for future action, major expense in the sewer fund are ... salary for one Town worker, ... plus repairs, maintenance, and ... bond payment and interest. Total operating budget involves $12,990. Taxes, plus sewer connection and maintenance fees are the source of revenue for this department. 50 cents per tax dollar is earmarked for the Sewer Fund under the present system of allocation. The other 50 cents in the $1.00 per $100 evaluation levied on each taxpayer is put into the General Fund.

The Finance Committee has prepared and presented the budget is headed by Ivy Holland, plus C. Lewis McDearmon, and T. R. Gilbert.

In other action Monday night Council discussed the discrepancies between the town's cost of attaching water and sewer connections to a dwelling or business, and the relatively small cost to the owner. A slight increase in the cost of attaching a new water connection is planned for the New Year, but the councilmen stated that this will still not cover the actual costs to the town.

Payment of routine bills was approved by the council members, and one building permit was approved.

Fuel Pumping Station Site In Cumberland

A pumping station for a Texas To - New York petroleum pipeline will be located about 12 miles north of Cumberland C.H. it was announced last week. The 125-acre site on Rt. 610 has been purchased from Continental Can Co., according to J. Taylor Williams, local legal representative for Colorial Pipelines Company, of Houston, Tex Purchase price was reported at just $15,000.

Williams said the station, will store about 500,000 barrels of petroleum in 100 tanks and will pump fuel through spur lines to Roanoke, Richmond, Newport News and Norfolk. It will require about 12 employees to handle the pumping station in Cumberland.

Preliminary maps for the fuel pipe line have been completed by Bartenstein and Associates, of Manassas, who placed brightly colored markers along the line route. The pipeline will probably cross portions of Charlotte, Appomattox, Prince Edward, Buckingham and Cumberland counties.

NOTICE!

There will be no window service at the post office on Sunday Dec. 23. The Post Office Department feels that due to the success of the Mail Early campaign this extra service will not be necessary. The previous notice is hereby rescinded.

In The Spirit Of Christmas

Two Appomattox Elementary School students, Margie and Peggy Morris, pause to take a closer look at the art work of their principal, Miss Flora Belle Williams. This Nativity scene was executed on unbleached muslin with crayon. a special art class project which Miss Williams has utilized as a spotlighted "stained glass" window for the school library. The Morris girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morris. Route 3, Appomattox. At the PTA meeting this evening, Thursday, pupils, and patrons will have opportunity to see and hear the Christmas story anew. The AHS glee club will sing Christmas carols, and each room is decorated in holiday best for the "open house."
